

This volume concentrates on Caroline Gallois pictorial production over the last twenty years, with large-format color reproductions presented in chronological order. Gallois work explores the meeting of sense and symbol, and through constant experimentation has produced an ample and singular corpus. Her career has taken her from Mexico to New York and Florence, and during each period, Gallois has evolved, experimenting with successive themes and a wide variety of contemporary techniques and media. Texts in Italian and French accompany the works, with English translations in appendices.
